“ Jacob Jones, you were my attorney while I was stationed in Texas. You were by far, the best attorney I have ever had. I remember having a few phone conversations with you before actually meeting you. When I met you and saw how young you were, I had my doubts as to how "good" you were. My doubts quickly changed as I saw how professional and smart you were. My case was put in the NY Times, Chicago Times and a few other national news outlets. I have since referred a few people your way. I was referring a person to you today when I found out about your death. Such a smart man and way too young to be taken. Rest in peace Mr. Jones.##imported-begin##Martin##imported-end##

“ My sweet Jacob, my best friend, my soul mate. I finally had a chance to say goodbye today, spending a couple of hours talking to him at the cemetery. I miss him every hour of every day. He is always in my heart and always my best friend. I love him so much. Cathartic to say goodbye today, but I'm at peace, finally. I love my sweet, wonderful best friend. I will never meet anyone so loving and giving.##imported-begin##Susan Stephens##imported-end##

“ It's pleasing to read that Jacob's humour and warmth reached such a wide scope. He was nothing short of brilliant(squared) and always managed to maintain a cool the most lax of people could only dream of achieving. This guy - he was a role model. He broke molds and was born to change the world... and did just this. As a friend, I'm proud to've known such a distinct and healing human; there will be no other aura matched. His light will always burn within me.##imported-begin##Carlos Lopez##imported-end##

“ What a privilege it was to work with Jacob on consumer protection issues. He cared deeply about his clients, particularly those who are serving our nation, and helped raise awareness about illegal practices that harm members of the Armed Forces and their families.

A report in the NY Times about one of his cases, brought on behalf of a sergeant who was sent to the war zone shortly after the story appeared, was entered into the Congressional Record. His work to obtain justice helped shape the debate over the Wall Street reform law that was enacted.

I am so grateful for the honor of working with him, and for his dedication and commitment to justice. He will be missed.##imported-begin##Rosemary Shahan##imported-end##

“ Initially, Jacob was not well known at our high school. One of the earliest activities he participated in was the Theater class. While I don't remember all the particulars, one day the Theater class put on a series of sketches for the "Black Out" at our high school. And then a star was born. I can't remember the skit, the jokes, etc., but I do remember something about Jacob running around a filled auditorium pretending to have a giant spider on him...and everyone loved him. I remember so much laughter from his antics that day. Everyone knew who he was after that day. (I believe he eventually went on to win awards in the UIL competitions for his acting in the school's One-Act Play.)###imported-begin##AB###imported-end##

“ Jacob, I love you very much and I'm so thankful that we had shared so many wonderful childhood memories together. Driving to New Mexico is one, but my favorite is when you and I made that video on Christmas eve that one year it's was hilarious. I know that you are with our Grandpa right now probably drinking a Slurpee and talking baseball. You will be missed.###imported-begin##Becca Galbreath###imported-end##

“ After working at KNTU for a Pledge Drive-Jacob, Sports Guy Kenny King, and myself went back to my apartment for some adult refreshment (Hmmm...) and a quick game of scrabble. Into the early morning hours we played and the more we drank the more Jacob whipped us. Sober or not he is the Scrabble King!##imported-begin##Vicki Stiefer##imported-end##

“ My heartfelt prayers go out to Jacob’s family and friends. I attended law school with Jacob, and we spent a good amount of time together outside of class. I was honored to call him a friend. I will never forget his vibrance, quick wit, intelligence, warmth, and compassion for all people. Jacob was an excellent writer, an eloquent public speaker, an outstanding attorney, and one of the best people I have ever known. Jacob, you passed away from us way too early, but your good deeds and work live on. Rest in peace, dear friend.##imported-begin##Kelly Gibbons##imported-end##

“ I had the pleasure to attend law school and serve as opposing counsel with Jacob. I commented to him several times that by far he is the nicest opposing counsel I have ever had to deal with. He was tough but fair and always kind. He made my job a joy rather than a burden. The legal community and his clients have suffered a great loss. My condolences to his family. I pray you strength.
