“ My thoughts and prayers are with all of you! I met James when I was 14. Chris and I were friends, and he brought me home to meet his family. Beverly (who became one of the best friends of my life) and James were such sweet and loving people. James was working on the rebuild of the garage at the time, and he stopped what he was doing to joke around with me to make me feel welcome. It was one of those gestures that you never forget. I'll always remember him for his kindness, his laughter, his smile, and his strong love for his family.

I am sorry for all of his children that he has passed, but I know that you are all comforted by him being out of pain now, and on his way to be with your mom!

With loving respect,

“ Bob & Jamie... No words really can help in these times. The only thing anyone can say is that they are so sorry for your loss. The old saying that time heals all wounds is a wise one for it is true. The wound of your loss will always be there but time and life will soften it and ease the pain you feel right now. Remember your loved one and grieve for a while. But then know there is still a lifetime ahead that is given to us to enjoy and go out and live it to the fullest measure that you can. We are thinking of you in this time.##imported-begin##Kelly & Jackie##imported-end##
