“ I don't know why but it seems that my first memory of you is in your kitchen. A radio was playing the 'craze' dance of the time....The Stroll. You were teaching me, my mother and Aunt Millie to stroll. You were a great teacher!! When I turned on American Bandstand...I could stroll just like the other kids on TV!! I have memories of you that the kids are gonna think...My Mom did that? giggle

I remember when Neta was born. She had health issues. I remember being scared to death to touch her. I remember you telling me to be careful cause she's had needles in her head. So, I missed out holding and playing with her.

I remember when you were carrying Brenda and when she was born. You let me have my way with her! She became my little baby. I look back now and have no idea how you could let me take her home with me. Good Lord! She was still in diapers and on a bottle. I was only 9 or 10 yrs old! But you let her come home with me...you trusted me with her. We lived on the 'hill' then. I remember feeding, playing and changing her. I'd put her up on my hip and walk her up and down the street. She was my 'live' dolly. I remember when Steve and Julie were born too. By then all the aunts were poppin' babies and I couldn't keep up with 'em!

I remembered you seemed to have so much patience with me. You treated me like an adult and not a kid. I appreciated that. I could tell you anything and you always listened to me and understood. You were not only my Aunt, but my older sister. Your only 10 yrs older than me...so yeal..a sister. I love your hugs. I love hearing you tell me that you love me too. Now your my Angel. I can talk to you anytime I want and you'll still be there for me. I'm gonna miss you soooooo much Aunt Judy. You were my Champion and I won't ever, ever forget that. I love you!##imported-begin##Bobbie Jo Bailey##imported-end##
